

National Society of Black Engineers National Conference (NSBE)

Floyd Harris, Director
Minority Engineering
University of Missouri - Rolla
212 Engineering Research Lab
Rolla, Missouri 65409
573-341-4212
573.341.4890
floydh@umr.edu

<http://campus.umr.edu/mep/>

Every year the National Society of Black Engineers (NSBE) provides over 3000 elected leadership positions for students and professionals on the chapter, regional and national level. The vibrancy of the organization is maintained through the participating and leadership of active members. 9,000 African-American engineering students. NSBE serves all members of the engineering community. Three conference tracks within the general convention target the specific needs of the Black technical community. Convention participants are free to attend any event at the convention. The benefit of NSBE is the education of minority engineering students.

